Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

I am very glad you wrote me again as I found on looking up the matter that the package had not been sent you. Why, I do not know as I had given instructions that it be sent off at the time I wrote you. I have, however, personally seen that it was mailed to you today, and I trust you will get it without undue delay. I am herewith returning the ten cents in stamps.

Very truly yours,

Curator.
